DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This office action is in response to Applicant's amendment filed on September 5, 2003. The examiner should have raised the issue of restriction and the examiner takes this opportunity to correct her position by raising the issue of restriction. Claims 1-51 are now pending.

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-7, 28-35, 36-47, and 51, drawn to a dynamic virtual network on which participating members can establish partnerships, communicate, and share information, classified in class 709, subclass 250.
 - II. Claims 8-17, drawn to a network access device facilitating access by a network member to a dynamic virtual network, classified in class 709, subclass 225.
 - III. Claims 18-26, and 50, drawn to a method for subscribing a prospective network member to a dynamic virtual network, classified in class 709, subclass 229.
 - IV. Claims 48-49, drawn to a method for the presentation over a network of information belonging to a plurality of disparate users of the network, classified in class 709, subclass 215.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because any type of interface can be implemented to allow a client to access a network. The subcombination has separate utility such as the network access device can be used to grant any client (member or non-member) access to any network other than a dynamic virtual network.

3. Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process of subscribing a client to the network can be implemented in other types of networks besides a dynamic virtual network.

4. Inventions I and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different functions; Invention I is a dynamic virtual network where members communicate, while Invention IV is a method of presenting information of users of a network using a database to store the information. Invention IV in no way discloses dynamic virtual network or members of the network. Invention I in no way discloses anything about the storage of information in databases.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, III, or IV, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. A telephone call was made to Blank, Rome, Comisky, and McCauley LLP on January 8, 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
